ART CLAY SILVER 650

Art Clay Silver is a precious metal clay which looks and feels like ordinary sculpting or porcelain clay with fine particles of pure silver mixed with a non-toxic organic binder. When fired, the binder burns out leaving a fine silver piece which can be hallmarked as fine silver. Art Clay is known as Art Clay Silver 650, simply because it can be fired at 650°C. At this low temperature it can be fired with sterling silver, dichroic glass & natural stones. This 650 version of Art Clay is slightly brighter than other clays. It shrinks by around 8 to 9%. As a guide fire at 650°C for 30 minutes, or 780°C for five minutes. Only use the higher temperature if the piece does not include sterling silver or glass. Object must be dry before firing. However this is a guide as the firing temperature & time will depend on the firing method and size of the object.

Art Clay Silver - 10g Paste

Used to glue (wet or dry) clay parts together, for repairing cracks and filling in marks and bumps. Can also be used to add texture. In addition the paste can be painted onto a burnable core, like a leaf or cork clay, to create a fine replica.

855 069 £11.55

Art Clay Silver Oil Paste - 10g

Oil paste is used after firing to repair cracks or to gluefired pieces together. This paste acts as a bond between fired silver pieces - creating a very strong bond - stronger than normal paste.

855 072 £17.50

Art Clay Silver 650 (10g) with Syringe & Tip

Comes with one tip enabling you to decorate your object with lines and other designs. Keep your syringe in a glass of water when not in use to prevent the tip from drying out.

855 070 £15.22

Art Clay Silver 650 Overlay Paste - 15g

Overlay paste is specially formulated to be used with porcelain, glass and glazed ceramics. Simply paint your design with a brush, let dry and then fire.

Art Clay Silver Paper Type, Square, 75 x 75mm - 10g

Ideal for Origami folding or can be used to embellish your clay pieces. This paper clay shrinks slightly more than clay. Can be fired with a torch or on gas hob but folded paper (Origami shapes) must be fired in a kiln.

Wood Clay 165gm

Wood clay is a non-toxic organic material ideal for making hollow PMC or Art Clay forms. Although the wood clay is not toxic it will cause smoke whilst it burns away. The wood clay can be plaited, woven, cut moulded and carved. The object can then be covered with strips of silver clay or paste. When fired in a kiln, the wood clay burns away leaving a hollow silver item.

Accent Gold for Silver 1gm (24ct)

One coat of Accent Gold for Silver will give you a 24ct Gold accent on fine silver Art Clay & PMC. The bottle contains 1g of 24 carat gold powder dispersed in non-toxic water based binder. Apply to fired items, allow to dry, and fire again to allow gold to bond with silver.

855 080 £53.50

Photopolymer Plate Kit

The Cookson Range of Palladium Wedding Ring Blanks

On the 22nd July 2009 amendments to the UK Hallmarking Act were finally approved which enabled the Assay offices in the UK to hallmark Palladium. The hallmark was voluntary until the 31st December 2009, becoming compulsory on the 1st January 2010.

Here are details of the style, weights & sizes of our range of Palladium Wedding Ring Blanks. All Cookson Palladium Rings are hallmarked and held in stock ready for immediate despatch.

The Palladium Hallmark

There are three recognised fineness standards for Palladium which are 500 parts per thousand, 950 parts per thousand and 999 parts per thousand.

500 950 999

The 950 fineness is thought to be the most widely used. Two of the fineness standards match Platinum - 950 & 999, however the shape of the surrounds are different.

A voluntary traditional mark depicts Pallas Athene, Goddess of War, Wisdom and Craft after whom Palladium was named.

All Cookson Precious Metals palladium ring blanks are now hallmarked.

The mark comprises of:

-  Our Sponsors Mark
- 950 Fineness Mark
-  Assay Office Mark
-  Voluntary Palladium Mark

We have introduced a brand new range of medium weight Courts and E-Fits alongside extra widths. 2, 7 and 8mm have been added to the existing heavy weight range of Courts, Flats and E-Fits.
